Bringing Up Baby

A new Westside baby boutique offers plenty of ideas and original looks

Story by Alyse Harral

Chaffee and Nancy Braithwaite are poised to take the world of baby products by storm with their new Westside baby boutique, B. Braithwaite.

STYLE News

One of six vignettes in the store, this modern nursery is filled with furniture pieces from the Netto Collection. Chair, felt rug and window treatment designed by Nancy Braithwaite.

FOR THE AVERAGE stressed out mom-to-be, the opening of the elegant, yet fun, baby boutique B. Braithwaite is nothing short of an answer to her prayers. I myself am six months pregnant and have yet to pick out a name for my child, much less the crib, linens, color-scheme or any theme required to pull off today's requisite finished nursery. But Nancy Braithwaite and her daughter Chaffee have made one-stop-shopping for nursery decor not only possible, but pleasurable. Braithwaite has pre-designed six nurseries and two toddler rooms complete with furniture, linens, wallpapers, window treatments, and a few signature accessories. Each room can be customized with choices in colors, finishes and fabrics. It's that easy.

B. Braithwaite also exclusively carries the lines Netto Collection and DucDuc for Atlanta, as well as offerings from Corsican, Newport Cottages, Stokke, and other custom-designed baby furniture by Nancy. Many of Nancy's pieces are over-size and designed to grow with the child, as well as being comfortable for adults.

Plenty of stuffed bears, rabbits and adorable baby clothes also make the store a great stop for gifts.

Wish list for baby

Compiled by AH&L's very pregnant managing editor Alyse Harral

MORGAN CRIB
This walnut crib by DucDuc has clean lines with additions like leather detailing on drawer pulls and orange lacquer on drawer interiors. $2,395

SLEEPER CRIB
by Stokke

The softly rounded smaller crib would be perfect as a mobile bassinette. $699

QUILTED BABY LINENS
by B. Braithwaite
Nancy was inspired by simple monochromatic quilts to create this set of crib linens, bumpers and window treatments. Warm and soft for an elegant country baby. Price available on request.

FLEECE SHEEP STOOL

This cute little stool is roughly carved and topped with fleece on the back and ears. Perfect on a ledge for decoration in the early years, it could easily become your baby's favorite toy. $209
